INCIDENTALS.

The excess of the appropriation for incidentals is caused by the salaries of the town officers of 1886 being paid from this year's appropriation, legal services employed in the settlement with the town of Milford, and the payment of one-half of bill of the Commissioners appointed by the Court. The unexpended balance of 1886 was larger than the excess of this year, making the amount expended in the two years within the appropriations.

During the past year, the policy of the previous season has been continued as regards devoting a part of the appropriation to the most needed repairs and improvements. Trees have been planted on the grounds at So. Hopedale, a new floor laid, and the school room furnished with single desks. At the Hopedale building some desks have been supplied, and outside windows placed on the north and west walls to facilitate the heating. Text-books and supplies are a smaller item than in 1886. The fall term having been changed from fifteen to fourteen weeks, the amount paid for teaching lacks one week of representing a full year in all grades, except the High school. The object of the change was to avoid opening school the first week in September, when the weather is often quite as oppressive as during July and August.

At the close of the spring term Miss Wormwood, who had had charge of the primary room for a year, was elected to a position at West Newton. As the salary offered was considerably in excess of what we were paying, and the location gave her an opportunity to teach while living at home, we could do no less than to accept her resignation. Under her instruction the room had shown great progress, and she was alike popular with parents and children. The vacancy was filled by the transfer of Miss Zeigler from the South Hopedale school, and Miss Mary L. Chamberlin of South Framingham, Mass., a graduate of the normal school, was elected to her position. Although changes in teachers are not desirable, they are often, as in the present case, a matter of necessity. We succeeded in retaining the remainder of our corps, and the schools are now moving along smoothly. The erection of the Elastic Fabric mill has added considerably to our population, and consequently to the school enrollment. The opening of another school-room, which was foreseen as likely to be needed in our last report, has now become a necessity. During the fall term of 1887, there were sixty-six scholars in the primary room, fifty-three in the intermediate, forty-three in the grammar, and thirty in the High School. If, as there is no reason to doubt, the usual number of children enters the lowest primary grade the coming season, there will be over fifty scholars in each of the three rooms below the High School at the opening of the fall term.

The best solution of the problem is the erection of a new building for the High School: this would leave four schools of two grades each in the present building, and while a necessity, on account of the lower grades, it will also be a great advantage to the High School, which is now in want of additional room. The new building should be planned with reference to an addition to accommodate the upper grammar scholars when the schools again outgrow the old building. We recommend the location of the new structure toward the southerly part of the village proper: at least as far south as Adin street.

In accordance with a suggestion of the School Committee the town has purchased for the use of the schools an acre of land between Chapel, Datcher and Freedom streets, formerly owned by Mr. George Draper. This should be graded and brought into condition for use as a playground. A small appropriation each year would soon accomplish this result.

The pupils attending the High School living below Green street have been carried to and from school during the months of January, February, March and December: also, on the same trip, some of the children have been carried to the South Hopedale building.

This course has enabled many to be present during the winter months where it would otherwise have been out of the question. There has been an average of about five scholars in the High School from adjoining towns for the entire year.

The attendance for 1887 is not quite up to the average of the Fall term shown in previous report. If parents would see that their children were in school unless detained at home by sickness or unavoidable causes, there would be a decided improvement in this respect. We have been fortunate compared with several neighboring towns in having had no serious epidemic of scarlet fever, diphtheria or other disease requiring the schools to be closed.

We recommend an appropriation of five thousand dollars for the coming year; this to include salaries of Committee, conveyance, and work on grounds.

For the School Committee,

FRANK J. DUTCHER,

Secretary.

The Trustees wish to impress it upon the inhabitants of the town that a Public Library is the proper place in which to deposit any manuscript or printed matter of any kind, whether book, pamphlet, report, notice, poster, hand-bill or newspaper, that contains any direct or indirect reference to Hopedale. If each citizen will bear this in mind and do his share in the matter, the Library will eventually contain a more complete history of our town than can be made in any other way.

The Trustees will furthermore welcome any suggestion that will in any way increase the usefulness of the Library.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE HOPEDALE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

At the beginning of the year 1887, the library consisted of about one hundred volumes of reference books which we had been able to purchase through the liberality of General William F. Draper, besides a considerable number of current periodicals. The reading room had then been open but one week. Although the donations of Mr. George A. Draper and Mr. Eben S. Draper were available for the purchase of books for circulation, it was thought best to delay purchasing and circulating them until they could be permanently located; for the building designed and erected for town purposes by the late Mr. George Draper contained rooms destined for the use of the library and was rapidly approaching completion. Unfortunately, however, the work was not completed at the expected time, for the interior finish had been destroyed by fire while still in the mill of the contractors. This accident, with other circumstances, caused so long delay that the Trustees decided to purchase books and begin to circulate them from the temporary rooms. On the fourth of June the registry for borrowers was opened and four books were delivered.

The library was closed for four days following the death of Mr. Draper, which occurred on the seventh of June. Business was entirely suspended throughout the town during that time, as a tribute to the memory of him through whose efforts our town was incorporated and to whom its citizens will ever owe a debt of gratitude for the building which he could not live to see completed and dedicated.

At a special town meeting held August twenty-second, the town voted to accept the building on the terms set forth in the deed of gift from the heirs of Mr. Draper.

The building is of granite and brown stone, with exterior dimensions of 75x69 feet. It is on the main street, and faces nearly East. On the front are two store entrances besides the main entrance, at the right of which are the staircase and town officers' rooms. At the end of the hall, directly opposite the entrance, are double doors leading to the Reading room, 24x22 feet, in the northwest corner; this is connected with the Library proper by an arch 11 feet 6 inches in width. This room occupies the rear center of this floor, and is 30 feet by 17 feet 6 inches, with an entrance from the left of the entrance hall. The finish, furniture and shelving in these rooms is of California red-wood. The entire upper story is occupied by the Town Hall, with the stage and reception and ante-rooms. The basement contains a market, lockup, caucus hall, steam heating apparatus and store cellar. The frontispiece is a heliotype view from a photograph of the finished building.

On the twenty-fifth of October the Hopedale Town Hall was dedicated with appropriate exercises, of which the chief feature was an oration by ex-Governor John Davis Long of Hingham.

The keys of the library rooms were delivered to the Trustees on the twenty-ninth day of October, by the janitor, Mr. Julien Shaw.

At a town meeting held November eighth, an appropriation was made for furnishing the rooms, and on the twenty-fourth of December a number of young men with willing hands moved the books. Thus the library was established in rooms which are not equalled for their purpose, for size and general appointments in any other town in the State with no larger population than that of Hopedale. One hundred and eight towns in Massachusetts are smaller than Hopedale in the number of poll tax-payers. Of this number fifty-one have no library and thirty-six towns which have a larger number of voters are yet without a library. With these facts in view the Trustees desire to express, on behalf of the citizens of the town, their grateful appreciation of the generosity shown by Mr. Draper in granting rent-free to the library, temporary rooms for its use. More than this, they believe that all will recognize the permanent benefit to the town and to its inhabitants, which will surely come through the elevating influences of the commodious and attractive apartments which he intended for library purposes.

The library, as an institution, is indispensable to a thorough education; it is an invaluable aid in supplementing our common schools and in laying the foundation for a high standard of character as well as for a high degree of intelligence and independent thought. Although the library means merely a collection of printed books, there can be no doubt that their surroundings and the facilities for their use play an important part in developing a desire for knowledge and a love for the society of books themselves.

The remarks of Rev. Adin Ballou at the dedication were taken down by Mr. A. W. Beardsell, who has deposited a copy in the library.' In closing, he says: "You have before you the privilege of shutting out, in a very large degree, evil, poverty and vice, * * * perhaps you have opportunity to prevent the formation of bad characters." The library is one of the most powerful influences in this direction.

The advantages of a reading room in connection with the library cannot be overestimated, and, perhaps, where both cannot be maintained to begin with, a judicious selection of periodicals in a suitable room would be of more benefit than the same expenditure for books. If properly cared for and used, the periodicals could be bound and in time form a considerable library in themselves. The number of persons who have used the reading room during the year is as follows :

Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.	May.	June.	July.	Aug.	Sep.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.	Total.
280	239	236	225	143	175	144	233	308	304	309	330	2990

On the wall of the Reading room is hung a portrait of Mr. Draper by Otto Grundmann. It was a gift to the town from Mr. Draper's employees, whose names are written on a subscription sheet and enclosed within the frame. It is acknowledged by all who have seen it, to be the best likeness of our benefactor that has yet been made.

In response to the appeal for books belonging to what was known as "The Hopedale Library," comparatively few have been received. About thirty were obtained by purchase at a nominal price. Mr. John L. Smith of Milford very kindly presented all that could be found in his possession, and a small number have been received from other persons. The following is a list of those now in the library. The original numbers are prefixed. C indicates that the book has a book plate of the "Hopedale Community Library;" H, that of "The Hopedale Library :

The Sunday School library contains the following books, which formerly belonged to "The Hopedale Library :"

Greeley's Overland Journey. Layard's Nineveh and Its Remains. Livingstone's Travels and Researches in South Africa. Amy Lothrop's Dollars and Cents, 2 vols. Stephen's Central America. Chiapas and Yucatan, 2 vols. Taylor's at Home and Abroad, Eldorado, Greece and Rome, India, China and Japan, Views Afoot. In all, twelve volumes.

It has been reported that permission was given to any one connected with the Hopedale Parish to take such books as he wanted; and that some availed themselves of this opportunity is evident, for one citizen has said that he sent one of the books to some far country in a missionary spirit. As an instance of the value of carefully preserving in safe-keeping the books of these old libraries, may be mentioned the two hundred and fifty volumes presented to the town of Franklin by Benjamin Franklin. These books are kept in glass cases and have a value far above the original cost. The books of the Hopedale library were well selected, and, as mentioned in our last report, the receipt of any one of them will be welcomed by the Trustees.

The children of Mrs. Martha A. (Richardson) Goddard, in cheerful compliance with a wish expressed before her death, have given nearly one hundred bound volumes, and a large number of periodicals, the whole of which forms a valuable addition to the library.

As we have heard a public statement to the effect that it was the intention not to purchase books of which copies are in the Sunday School library, it is proper to say that the funds at our disposal can easily be invested in books of the highest rank without purchasing duplicates of those in the other library. This course would give the largest list of books from which the greatest number of persons could select. Of course it is not to be supposed that because a book is in some other library, it will not eventually be purchased for the Public Library.

Blanks are furnished to any one who applies for them, on which applications for books not in the library may be made. With one or two exceptions, all books so asked for have been obtained. The Trustees wish to encourage applications of this kind, particularly for books other than novels.

The number of borrowers reached 244 on the last day of December. Of these, eleven have removed from town, leaving 233 at the end of the year.

The circulation for the seven months has been as follows :

June.	July.	Aug.	Sep.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.	Total.
92	272	416	451	509	503	432	2695

The largest circulation for any one day was 47, on November 12th. The teachers in the public schools have been allowed to draw a number of books at one time, on special cards, for use in the schools. Several have taken advantage of this privilege, which it is hoped may prove an indispensable one, as it is in other places where the experiment has been made.

The library is classified on the Dewey or decimal system. The ten principal classes are numbered from 0 to 9; these are subdivided into 100 divisions, 1000 sections, and further into sub-sections to any extent required. In connection with this system of classification is an extensive subject index, alphabetically arranged, which is of great assistance in determining the class, and with that the location of the books on the shelves, where they are arranged accordingly, those on kindred subjects always being together.

We are pleased to add our testimony to the value and simplicity of this system. It was worked out and introduced by Mr. Melvil Dewey, Professor of Library Economy, Chief Librarian and Director of the Library School of Columbia College. The book numbers are from the comprehensive plan of Mr. C. A. Cutter, Librarian of the Boston Athenæum.

A card catalogue has been made, as the books have from time to time been entered on the accession book and placed on the shelves for circulation. At present, it includes two separate catalogues, one of authors, and one of subjects. Analytical or cross-reference cards will be added as fast as they can be prepared.

The device suggested by the librarian for the book-plate has been adopted by the town for its official seal.

The character of the circulation since the opening in June, is as follows in percentages :

0. General Works....	4.82	6. Useful Arts.....	1.38
1. Philosophy.....	.00	7. Fine Arts.....	1.49
2. Religion.....	.31	8. Literature } Fiction..	69.12
3. Sociology.....	.77	8. Literature } Other...	5.47
4. Philology.....	.00	9. History, Biography..	15.80
5. Natural Science....	.84

That the percentage of fiction is below seventy per cent. of the total circulation is worthy of notice, for the average circulation of works of fiction in public libraries commonly exceeds this rate. As an additional indication of the character of the reading of the borrowers it may be mentioned that none of the works of those writers of fiction which have been the subject of serious criticism, as to the propriety of their being admitted to general circulation, are in this library.

It is not customary in public libraries to allow borrowers, or readers, to have access to the shelves except in special cases ; but if the privilege is not abused, there can be no harm in granting it in small libraries ; and where the books are not deprived of all individuality by either a homely or handsome manilla cover, almost any one would appreciate this privilege. It has been granted from the first, and will be continued so long as no unfair advantage is taken of it, for we are sure that there are already many who would be loth to give it up.

With reference to covering books, the judgment of those who have had the best opportunities of observing the effect of covers, is that the books are liable to be damaged unless great care is used in putting on the cover. Frequent renewals are necessary, as the covers soil much more quickly than ordinary bindings ; and a book with a soiled cover has a most unattractive appearance. Lastly, the expense of covering is a large one, and the books lose their identity.

On the other hand, it is a very simple matter and entails no expense, for those who fear that a book may be soiled while in their possession, to fold a sheet of paper around the cover, without attempting to make it close-fitting or permanent. We say this, because the experience in this library so far has been that every borrower, almost without exception, has taken a praiseworthy pride in preserving the appearance of the books, promptly calling attention to any damage, and being more than willing to make it good. A continuance of this care will insure the fresh appearance of the books so long as the binding does not give out, and so long as borrowers will remember that to use a book only with clean hands does more towards preserving its appearance than any cover can do. An examination of those books most largely circulated, will show very clearly defacements which cannot be prevented by any covering.

As mentioned in the last report, it was expected that a considerable amount would be expended for binding ; but on further consideration it was thought best to expend the money for books, and to defer the binding of many periodicals until possibly complete sets should be obtained. That this course will be the best in the end, is the unanimous opinion of the board.

It is the custom in many Massachusetts towns to apply the proceeds of the dog tax to the uses of the library. Where this custom prevails, those whose dogs never do any damage have the satisfaction of knowing that their payment for the privilege of keeping a dog is applied to the support of one of the best of local institutions, and in consequence they probably take a livelier interest in the library.

To extend the feeling of personal interest which is essential to the best success of any society or educational institution, and to make it more nearly universal in our town, we recommend for the library appropriation for the ensuing year, in addition to the proceeds of the dog tax, an amount equal to the poll taxes assessed for the year 1888. The amount of this appropriation will represent a payment of a little less than four cents a week for each poll tax payer; and for this sum he will receive for himself and his family all the privileges of the library. If any one is disposed to value these privileges slightly, we tender him a cordial invitation to visit the library and become acquainted with its contents, as he surely must have neglected to do so before. On the contrary, we hope there are many who will think this amount insignificant, and who will be disposed to augment it by sending gifts of gold, or of books or other printed matter.

It is without doubt fully understood that this favorable showing, representing, as it does, large returns for small investments, could not have been made except for the fact that the ample rooms planned by Mr. Draper, as a part of his munificent gift, are free of expense to us for rent; nor without the cash contributions from his sons, which have enabled us to procure the reference books and almost all the books for circulation.

If the appropriations are granted, as recommended, we estimate that the library can be increased by the addition of from 150 to 200 volumes during the year. A further sum can be advantageously expended in completing sets of standard periodicals.
